

Editorial

This second issue is prepared during the really tough economic and social events throughout the world. Exchange rates have been changing dramatically in many countries alongside with the stagflation. Some of the countries have been able to sort out these problems while many others experienced severe fails.

The following issues are discussed in this issue: investment in reproductive health sector, organisational resource capabilities on value chain management, oil rent and economic development, sustainable tourism, entrepreneurial development, the impact of COVID-19 on the household economy, and regime change and infrastructure development.

Hope to see you in the next issue!

Bilal Celik, PhD.

Chief Editor

Nile University of Nigeria