

Editorial

I am pleased to present the 7th issue of the Journal of Global Economics and Business to your attention. The journal has been published regularly from the beginning of the first issue. It is read by researchers and scientists from approximately fifty different countries every month. Google Scholar indexes the articles published in the journal just within a week.

Again, there are precious articles written by fruitful academicians of different areas of specialisation in this issue. This issue searches and discusses the following topics: Credit Channel of Monetary Policy, Value Creation by SMEs, Big Data Analytics and Artificial Intelligence, Factors that Cause Employee Turnover, Turkish Loanwords in the Russian Language, and Conflict Management Strategies.

Hope to see you in the next issue!
