Dear Authors, Academics, and Researchers,

It is my pleasure to present the 8th issue of JGSS.

Unfortunately, alongside the winter months, the effects of COVID have been felt deeply by almost all countries. Moreover, specific variants of the disease can not be adopted quickly. This case results in discussions about the inefficiency of vaccination, which is now more intensely argued within society. Consequently, COVID is destroying the idea, philosophy, and culture of modernism based on the belief in science. Nothing seems to be the same after the COVID, even if we can see the end of it.

Thanks to the distinguished authors, this issue contains very critical articles. The main topics of this issue are; Crisis of Inequality and Dependency of Third World States, Main Sources on Tatar Etymology, Impact of Technological Advancement, a significant Research in The Post COVID-19 Era, Public Perceptions Towards Corona Virus, and Assessment of Requisite Knowledge.

Hope to see you in the next issue.
